Forecast For Yorkshire & the Humber
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 26 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Dry with sunny spells and light winds.

Today:
Chilly start, with a frost in some rural places. Then staying dry with sunny spells, light winds and only patchy cloud, the cloud mainly but not exclusively across the Pennines. Temperatures will be close to the seasonal average. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Tonight:
Some areas of cloud may persist across western hills, but most places will have a clear night with temperatures quickly falling. A frost will develop in some rural areas. Minimum temperature -1 deg C (30 deg F).

Saturday:
Sunny start but then cloudier conditions soon arriving, bringing some patchy light rain and drizzle, although mostly across the Pennines. Light winds. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
It will often be cloudy, especially along the coast where patchy mist and fog could arrive, but still some sunny spells will develop, particularly inland. Temperatures remaining near average.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.